Lawyer

A lawyer is a person who defends someone accused of a crime in a trial. He also advises clients on legal issues and is responsible for writing legal documents such as contracts and wills.

The lawyer must follow a professional code of ethics, which includes keeping the information given by their client confidential. A lawyer must study very hard and know the laws well.

To work as a lawyer in many countries, you must pass a special exam after attending law school.

Lawyers may work in courts, along with judges and private companies, or have their own law firm.
