Librarian

The librarian oversees the classifying, ordering, and preserving books and other materials found in libraries. He/she also helps people find the information they are looking for when they visit the library.

Libraries are places where books, magazines, and newspapers from different periods of time are stored, as well as audiovisual material, such as compact disks, films, and cassettes, and other records of past events.

Librarians can work in public libraries, in libraries of learning centers, in schools and universities, in museums, and even in libraries of government agencies or private companies.
