Postman/Mailman

The mailman is the person in charge of delivering letters and packages that are sent by mail.

First, mail dropped in mailboxes is collected and sorted. Then, the mailman delivers them to the houses, offices, and other places indicated on the envelopes and packages.

Mailmen use many types of transportation to deliver mail - bicycles, motorcycles, or special cars and jeeps. They also walk from house to house. Sometimes, they must deliver very important letters and documents. They must reach the right address.

Mailmen wear a uniform and carry satchels or mailbags on their delivery rounds.
