

Just Like Martin

“Hurry up and finish getting dressed for school. Your breakfast is on the table and getting cold,” said Michael’s mother.

“I’m almost ready. Please, may I read just one more page?” asked Michael.

“What are you reading?”

“It’s a book about Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.,” replied Michael. “Mom, did you know that Dr. King went to college when he was only fifteen years old? He became a strong leader in his community and believed that everyone should have an equal opportunity to work hard to get a good education and a good job. He helped a lot of people and won the Nobel Peace Prize. I want to be like that too some day.”

“Well, not until after breakfast,” his mother said gently and smiled.

1. What did Michael want to do before eating his breakfast?

<input type="radio"/> read one more page	<input type="radio"/> take a bath
<input type="radio"/> put on his shoes	<input type="radio"/> make his bed

2. Michael told his mother he was reading a book about _____.

<input type="radio"/> Harry Potter	<input type="radio"/> Michael Jackson
<input type="radio"/> Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.	<input type="radio"/> George Washington

3. How old was Dr. King when he went to college?

<input type="radio"/> seventeen	<input type="radio"/> fifteen
<input type="radio"/> eighteen	<input type="radio"/> fourteen

4. According to the story, Dr. King became a strong leader in his _____.

<input type="radio"/> home	<input type="radio"/> neighborhood
<input type="radio"/> community	<input type="radio"/> state

5. Dr. King believed in equal opportunities for _____.

<input type="radio"/> only men	<input type="radio"/> only adults
<input type="radio"/> only African Americans	<input type="radio"/> everyone