Who wrote a famous diary while in hiding during World War II?

Anne Frank was born in Frankfurt, Germany. Her family was Jewish. Anne loved to read and dreamed of one day becoming a writer.

Later, her family moved to Holland. Anne was given a diary as a gift for her 13th birthday.

During World War II, the Germans invaded Holland. Anne's family was forced into hiding, along with others, to escape the Germans.

While she was in hiding, Anne wrote in her diary about the horrors of war. Finally, Anne and the other people who were in hiding with her were discovered and sent to concentration camps. The only one who survived the concentration camps was Otto Frank, the father of Anne.

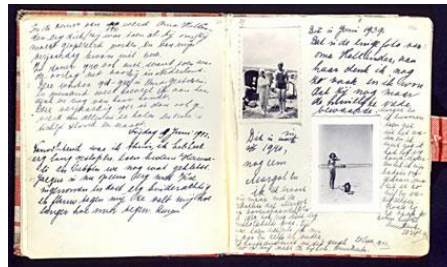

Anne's diary has been translated into more than 65 languages and has been made into movies.
