Teacher

Teachers in college are called professors. Teachers teach and share their knowledge with students. Teachers of younger students teach the students to read and write. The older students are taught other courses such as mathematics and science.

Teachers are responsible for preparing the lessons, giving classes to the students, tutoring the students, controlling the discipline in the classroom, taking attendance, correcting homework, giving exams and giving grades for the students.

In their work, teachers use blackboards, computers, art supplies, books, notebooks, pencils and other school supplies. Above all, they need students who want to learn. Teachers can work in pre-school centers, daycares, elementary and high schools and universities.
