The Big Birthday Party

Yesterday, we went to Martha's birthday. Martha is my best friend, and although we love each other a lot, I have to admit that sometimes we fight. Her party was full of surprises, balloons, games, cakes and sweets, songs, and the brilliant performance of a magician. All of Martha's friends sang happy birthday to her and gave her some nice gifts. The gift that she loved the most was a new purple bike. Martha does not know how to pedal alone yet, but her father promised that they will go to the park to practice on the weekend. Before each of us went home, Martha gave us a bag of sweets that she had prepared with the help of her sister, Cecilia. It was a sensational birthday!
